

WHO WE ARE AND WHAT WE DO.

Alpha Design Ltd are a multi disciplinary architectural practice in the West Midlands. Although the company is still young, we are backed up with over 20 years experience in the architectural design, building construction and building contract procurement in many types of work.

The company has a focus on refurbishment, residential and commercial building projects. We currently provide high quality architectural expertise to local clients as well as corporate companies all over the country. We undertake small specialized projects right up to large industrial buildings and estates. We can meet your design requirements as well as advise you through the legal health and safety minefield that embraces the construction process.

Our multi disciplinary practice has developed over the years, so we can support the client with :-

- A high quality, and quick feasibility scheme design analysis for any kind of development site.
- A first class architectural and planning service for all types of planning and building regulation applications.
- Provide swept path analysis on large developments for Local Authority planning applications.
- Add high value engineering to our projects, ie structural design, storm and foul water calculations, dynamic thermal analysis, TM37 overheating calculations, heat loss review and U value checks.
- Offer a full thermal simulation service as we registered with the BRE as 'Competent persons' to provide Simplified Building Energy Model Calculations.
- Employ in house Association of Project Safety qualified CDM Coordinators and our designers are registered on the 'Competent Persons Designer Register' with the APS.
- Provide 3d visualizations of our proposed building.
- Support good design with sustainability at its core.
- Support the tender procurement process and act as the contract administrator.

We strongly believe we can compete in the architectural marketplace to provide the client with an individual personalized service where the clients needs are understood and developed. Alpha Design Ltd maintain high standards of service to ensure the project is done right, first time, every time. We know we can, we keep being asked by our usual clients to work with them again.
